NORTH CAROLINA

Medoc Vineyard was founded in 1835 in the town of Brinkleyville, North Carolina. It was the first commercial winery in North Carolina and led the country's wine production in the 1840's. North Carolina started winning international wine competitions in 1900. Today, North Carolina ranks 10th in U.S. wine production and has an annual economic impact of $1.7 billion.

North Carolina is home to 180 wineries, more than 400 individually owned vineyards covering 1,800 acres all across the state and continues to win international awards year-after-year. The Yadkin Valley AVA is North Carolina's first federally recognized American Viticultural Area and has a climate similar to Bordeaux, lending itself to earthy, vegetal, herbal, and mineral driven wines.

The Yadkin is located in northwestern North Carolina and contains 40+ wineries, over 400 acres of grapes. Among these, we find our top picks for all-estate, internationally awarded North Carolina wineries: Jones Von Drehle Vineyards, RayLen Vineyards, and Shelton Vineyards.

McRitchie Vineyards, a beautiful boutique producer, is also located in the Yadkin, and we hope to have them on our list very soon. Swan Creek AVA (a subregion of the Yadkin) was established in 2008. It currently encompasses five wineries, including Raffaldini Vineyards, which we are also trying to bring to Charleston.

Ask your server or bartender for more information on our beautiful North Carolina selections.
